A strategic location, infrastructure, and business attitude make Thailand an outstanding setting for business events of all scales and preferences.

Thailand has become globally recognized as a premier MICE destination and is the preferred site for meetings and events in the economically dynamic Southeast Asian region. In 2015 the ASEAN Economic Community becomes reality and the Thai public and private sectors have worked together to ensure the nation will be a leader in the new community. Trade and investment opportunities will flourish as the community unlocks the economic potential of nearly 600 million consumers.

With its strategic location and modern economic infrastructure, Thailand is also the perfect base to establish trade links with the fast-growing markets of India, China and Australia, each of which have strong cultural and economic ties to the kingdom. Thailand also boasts 11 bilateral free trade agreements with countries around the world. This openness and the government's proactive approach toward the provide sector make Thailand the economic locus of ASEAN.
