Thailand offers you rich choices of convention destinations. Cosmopolitan city, historic sites, island and mountainous environment make it one of the world's most preferred venues. Bangkok, Pattaya, Chiang Mai and Phuket are first-rate cities for conventions. Each is conveniently accessible via international flights and has cutting-edge infrastructure, facilities and support services to better serve conventions.

Bangkok, the nation's MICE hub, is always boosting its MICE energy. Existing world-class venues which possess a high profile in hosting international events are expanded, while more unique venues and facilities catering to business events are opened, plus the expansion of transport network to reach the venues.

All these are enriching Bangkok's capacities to better host events of all sizes and requirements.

Less than a two-hour drive from Suvarnabhumi International Airport, Pattaya, a vibrant coastal city, is more vigorously catering to MICE market. With international convention center, abundant four-and-five star accommodations and varied attractions for business leisure, the city is now hosting more and more prestigious international conventions, thus, enhancing its profile in the conference segment.

Chiang Mai, the economic hub of the North, is growing by leaps and bounds. A debut of new international convention center, the largest in the north, plus the existing world class and rich choices of accommodation, and creative personnel to transform the city's unique culture and ecological environment into a memorable setting and experiences will make the city a truly destination for your conventions.

The island of Phuket in the South is now dotted with more premium hotel brands, assuring your conventions with enriched choices of venues and settings. The island's potential for conventions is hugely enhanced. Its international airport is being expanded to serve more flights and travelers, while its unique culture is being revived to offer a local flavor to business travelers.

These four cities are just the highlights. In fact, Thailand has more unique locations with great potential to meet all needs. The options for businesses continue to grow as infrastructure and services are being expanded across the nation. Give your convention a new chance of inspiration in one of our MICE cities.
