Key Destinations

These comprise major centers around the country that you may already be familiar with or have heard about.

Bangkok is a multi-faceted city that caters to all interests. Despite the modern lifestyle of the people, this bustling metropolis still maintains its charming characteristics generated by the Thai culture and way of life. Pattaya on the Gulf of Thailand and Phuket off the Andaman coast are two locations that combine exotic paradise with modern incentive facilities in a beach setting. Then there is Chiang Mai, the center of Northern Thailand and a perfect destination for both business and leisure visitors. Khon Kaen, on the other hand, is a gem of Northeastern Thailand that has been prioritized by the Royal Thai Government as a tourism model for other cities in the country and will prove very attractive for incentives.

Chiang Rai

Fascinating Lanna Wonders

Tending to be a little more laid back and competing with Chiang Mai as an incentive destination, Chiang Rai is fast becoming a popular escape for those participants wanting a quieter venue and being within close proximity to nature.

The former capital of the great Lanna Kingdom, it has fascinating cultural and natural wonders. It is home to the famous "Golden Triangle". And for those interested in social development, Chiang Rai is also a center for community development projects helping rural villagers to have a better quality of life without adversely affecting their natural and cultural assets. This completeness makes this destination perfectly suitable for conducting incentives that focus on going back to nature or to the bare basics.
